and the Open Source Automation Development Lab (OSADL) eG hereby agree to include the above-cited institution as an academic member in the OSADL eG. The academic institution will be listed on the Internet homepage <http://www.osadl.org> as an academic member of the OSADL eG.

The purpose of the membership is for cooperation in the development of Open Source Software for machine and plant construction in the automation industry and does not represent an affiliation within the meaning of § 15 GenG beyond § 8 I No. 5 GenG or § 2 IV of the by-laws of the OSADL eG. The academic member is in particular not required to acquire business assets or pay annual fees. Both parties can terminate the agreement at any time informally and without notice.

The parties grant each other the right to use lettering, logos or emblems of the other party when depicting the academic membership (for example on the Internet). Likewise, each party can cite the academic membership in brochures, articles, informational material, research requests, etc. These rights expire upon termination of the agreement without requiring specific notification.

Any additional rights granted by the OSADL to the academic member are freely revocable if not otherwise agreed.

This accession agreement is subject to the laws of the Federal Republic of Germany. The legal venue is 72074 Tübingen in Germany.
